

You are invited to a webinar on

Meeting US Import Requirements

If you or your customers export to the US, this webinar is for you!

Determining United States Phytosanitary Import Requirements for Plants for Planting

The Canadian Food Inspection Agency (CFIA), Flowers Canada Growers (FCG) and Canadian Nursery Landscape Association (CNLA) will host a training webinar on how to determine US import requirements.

This webinar is designed to help flower and nursery growers and exporters manage US import requirements including the Not Authorized Pending Pest Risk Analysis (NAPPPRA) regulations. The increased scrutiny placed on plant origin will require that Canadian flower growers carefully source their stock material to ensure that US requirements are met by the plants when they enter Canada. CFIA staff will provide guidance on how to ensure your plants meet US entry requirements.

Who Should Participate?

Any flower exporter, or flower producer who supplies flower exporters. If any of your plants are ever exported to the US by you or your clients, you should participate in this free event!
